

Rick Howe, Chief Executive

B.Sc.(Eng), Dip.F.P.

Rick Howe is the Chief Executive of the Lifetime Support Authority (LSA) of South Australia, the government statutory authority responsible for the delivery of the Lifetime Support Scheme in South Australia.

Prior to his appointment at the LSA in 2020, Rick was Deputy Chief Executive at the Insurance Commission of Western Australia, where he was responsible for the operations of the Motor Injury Insurance scheme as well as the Government Insurance arrangements for the State. In particular, he led the introduction of the WA Catastrophic Injuries Support scheme, which was established in July 2016.

His career experience includes senior executive roles at Westpac and ANZ as well as broad experience across a range of insurance and financial services organisations in Australia and the UK.

Rick holds a Bachelor of Science in Engineering from University College London, a Diploma of Financial Planning from RMIT and is a graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors.